July 19 marks the opening of the exhibition Existential Places, a journey through the evocative and personal works of artist Julie Legrand. The Exhibition is organized by Ten Arts in collaboration with ICI Venice - International Cultural Institute during The Venice Glass Week 2022, a significant European initiative dedicated to art glass. Starting with natural or manufactured objects, created and shaped by the artist, such as the new ceramic-glass series, Julie Legrand reveals a secret life, a lifeblood that makes each thing a being in its own right. The glass that escapes from each source object transfigures the materials and appears as the expression of a new psyche in which the viewer can recognize his or her most intimate emotions.

After studies in Fine Arts in Cergy (ENSACP) and in Humanities and Philosophy, Julie Legrand explores ancestral skills either self-taught (glassblowing with flashlight and cane) or through professional training (woodturning, basketry, ceramics), including a professional master's degree in Contemporary Creation and Technologies at ENSCI in Saint Sabin. If his research shows a strong interest in experimentation and articulation of different realms, this is for the benefit of an intimate and sensitive expressiveness that makes us touch the fundamental emotions of life.
